Bio

I was born and raised here in Lubbock and graduated from Texas Tech, but have always known my primary goal in life was to get married and have a family. As we began to research the “perfect school” for our kids, we fell in love with the hybrid model of combining a structured school along with homeschooling. Consequently, the idea of starting a University-Model School in Lubbock was birthed (19 years ago). Since that time, KPA has become like an addition to my family. We have all (Jared, Sydney-24yrs., Carson-21yrs., and Sawyer-19yrs.) worked tirelessly to see this school come through to fruition, and it has been a blessing to witness the progress along the way. I love working at KPA! The students are top-notch with incredible hearts, and the parents are driven by their love for the Lord and their earnest desire to train their children’s hearts daily. When I’m not working, I love riding my bike, going for walks, gardening, and taking care of my animals (one dog, two cats, and six chickens); but my favorite place in the world is the beach!
